

Portfolio Manager's comments

Bitcoin dominance was relatively stable throughout the month, started the month at 65.40%, reached a low of 64.07%, high of 65.88%, and ended practically unchanged at 64.64%.

Bitcoin started the month at $9,461 and traded between $8,976 and $10,163 to close at $9,138 down 3.41% for the month. Genesis Block Fund was down 3.58%. Right off the gates on June 1st a big spike took us over the infamous $10k mark for BTC but within 24 hours we were back to the mid $9k handle as Bitmex yet again liquidated a lot of levered longs. After this initial excitement most of the month was very boring with volatility coming off significantly to around 50% until rumors that both PayPal & Venmo would roll out crypto trading for their 300mm plus client base, following the footsteps of Square's Cash App, Revolut and Robinhood. The firing of Geoffrey Berman, US attorney for the Southern District of NY, and potential nomination of Jay Clayton, current SEC Chairman, to take his place sparked speculation of a Bitcoin ETF approval. Clayton has been holding back to a Bitcoin ETF approval, if he is replaced as SEC Chairman and Senate approves his new role, it will be interesting to see who would assume the role of SEC Chairman going forward and if he/she would be more crypto-friendly. We increased our position in XMR and LINK early in the month. We added some Tezos on recent weakness (down 15.3% in June). Our best performing asset in May was BAT (up 19% in June) followed closely by LINK (up 10.6% in June) and WAX (up 10% in June). We continue with our structural underweight position in XRP (down another 13% in June). Our small overweight (ETH, WAX, BAT, XMR, and LINK – all outperformed BTC) and our underweights (BCH, LTC, and EOS – all underperformed BTC) helped gain some Alpha against BGCI.

The big theme of the month was the DeFi (Decentralized Finance) space, check out DeFi Pulse for more statistics. This space has recently been a hot topic in the crypto world and we believe we are well position to capture its upside with an overweight position in ETH and our smaller but relevant positions in KEEP and MKR. We were not involved in Compound which came to main net this month and did quite well.

Total Value Locked (USD) in DeFi

KEEP token price continues somewhat erratic with small free float for trading (down 9% in June). They launched their stake drop on June 8th, there is still limited liquidity in the secondary market so we continue to mark them at a discount to Coin Market Cap. We were glad to hear that Coinbase Custody approved KEEP for custody, a strong sign that listing them for trading on their platform will be next. Interesting article comparing early internet adoption in the mid 90's with Ethereum's DeFi proposition with number of unique addresses exceeding 100mm which is 10x higher than internet users in 1995. Of course, one individual can have multiple addresses so we could discount some of this number, but the growth has been accelerating (more interesting stats on the full article).

JPM wrote a lengthy report stating that Bitcoin crash survival shows it has staying power. Again, what a change from just over 2 years ago. Please contact us if you want access to the full document.
